

Trust in Darkness (BDSM Erotica)

She wears a blindfold, but that's for their benefit, not hers. Tonight, she will be given to a group of strangers; men she'll never meet, and never see. Master will keep her, and her secret, safe. But can she really go through with it? It's always hard for a submissive to find a Dom she can truly trust. Imagine how much harder it is to find such a man if you can't ever look him in the eye. It's taken a long time, but she's finally found him, and tonight he's letting her fulfill her ultimate fantasy. Join her on a night that will indulge all four senses beyond her wildest dreams, as she finally learns to trust, in darkness. EXCERPT

Are you ready, dear one? Yes, Master, and I was. At least, I thought I was. Now that the moment was finally here, after anticipating it for so long, my heart was pounding, and my palms were clammy with sweat. Master's hands were gentle as he fastened the silk blindfold in place not that I needed it of course, but our guests would appreciate it, even if they didn't realize it. You're sure this is what you want? There's still time to change your mind. I'm sure. No, I wasn't, and I wished he'd stop offering me a way out. I know Master was being his usual, cautious self. He always took care of me, and made sure that I didn't push myself too far. I could be reckless, sometimes saying green when I should really have been saying amber or red but this time I thought I might really have gone too far. It was taking all of my courage not to back out, and Master kept on giving me the opportunity to do so. Not that I was unhappy with our relationship quite the opposite. I've known I was a submissive ever since I learned that there was a whole world of delicious kinks outside of what I'd come to think of as vanilla sex. Learning of the existence of the whole BDSM scene was nothing short of a revelation. Finally, I could stop feeling like I was some kind of weirdo, just because I got totally wet at the thought of being tied and taken while I squirmed in delicious helplessness. Admitting to myself that I was a submissive was one thing, but finding a suitable Dom was quite another, especially in my condition. Guys either think that girls like me exist on some kind of higher plane of innocence (yeah, right), or else it becomes all about the disability, rather than being about me. Im blind, and have been since birth, but that doesnt define me, and it doesnt give anyone the right to judge me or criticize my kinks. Im a blind submissive. Deal with it. I was so happy when I finally found Master. He dominates me with the perfect balance of tenderness and strength, and to him my blindness is simply another fact about me, just like my big boobs and long hair (both of which he adores). Weve been together for almost six months now; six glorious months during which hes taken me, with careful and exquisite cruelty, right up to my limits and then beyond. I love the totally matter of fact way he deals with my condition no pity, just pragmatism. Like today hes carefully selected some guests (he wont tell me how many), to help me fulfill one of my deepest and most terrifying fantasies. He hasnt told any of them that Im blind. Like I said, sometimes guys react in ways I dont like; hence the black silk thats currently tied snugly over my eyes. Master is simply the best. Who else would think to blindfold a blind girl? The men are due to arrive any moment now. They all have experience of these situations, and a blindfolded submissive is something theyll know how to deal with, where a blind submissive might freak them out. I hear the soft electronic blips of the clock announcing the hour. Its time.
