

Rachael Ray: Food Entrepreneur (Women of Achievement)

When one of her recipes calls for EVOO, cooks knowingly reach for the extra-virgin olive oil. And when she declares a dish Yum-O, those who have tried her dishes can nod in agreement. Rachael Ray grew up surrounded by great cooks in restaurants, so cooking was a natural and integral part of her life. She first began cooking at home with her mother, moved on to her own cooking demonstrations at local food markets, and finally ended up making successful cooking shows on television. But how did an untrained cook growing up in small-town upstate New York go on to become one of the Food Networks biggest stars? And perhaps most intriguingly, what role has she played in Americas ongoing food revolution? Rachael Ray tells the story of a woman who has made a career of encouraging others to cook, eat, and love food as much as she does. From her catalog of cookbooks to line of cookware, Ray has become a powerful force in food education.
